Data Analysis and Modelling Service

Pythagorisk Pty Ltd offers a data analysis and modelling service to clients who want to extract the most useful and relevant information from their existing databases.

Benefits:

- Getting the most out of your data – It is very expensive and time consuming to collect field data. Thus it makes sense to ensure that the most useful and relevant information is extracted from such data sets. In this regard it should be noted that drawing false conclusions from poor analysis is worse than not analysing the data at all.
- Decision making – The statistical predictions and identification of underlying mechanisms allows the client to make informed decisions on courses of action and/or controls. Furthermore, the probabilistic analysis converts the results into the natural language of probabilities which can be used for risk analysis.
- Technical credibility – PRPL have extensive experience in data analysis and are regularly using all the analysis procedures. Our approach (illustrated below) gives all stakeholders confidence that a rational process has been used to maximise the value of data collected.
